Paying For Healthcare.

Let’s face it, not all healthcare costs are covered by insurance. You may be considering routine to complex dental work, LASIK or cosmetic surgery, or an unexpected expense for your cat or dog. Whatever it may be, when unexpected out-of-pocket healthcare costs arise, using patient financing to turn that big bill into manageable payments can be a great alternative. This guide is designed to inform you on the ins-and-outs of healthcare financing, how to choose the best company and financing option for you as well as how to avoid interest charges.
You Have Options.

In times like these, financing options become all the more important.

When most of us think about paying for healthcare, we think about the obvious methods such as cash, check, debit card or other bank card. However, there are a variety of healthcare financing options which can help enable patients to get the care they want and need. Most of us may not learn about these payment options until we are at the doctor’s office ready for treatment but you’ve taken the first step in exploring and evaluating the payment options best for you.

Healthcare Financing.

When you don’t have the cash on hand to get the healthcare procedure you want or need, making monthly payments can enable you to proceed.

Even if you do have funds available, using the CareCredit credit card can help if you prefer to spend out of pocket for other needs or investments. Some healthcare practices may offer installment plans but these may still require significant cash outlay within a short amount of time. That’s when healthcare financing, such as CareCredit, can help.

Healthcare Financing may seem like a new concept but it’s actually been around for nearly 30 years. There are a variety of healthcare financing companies which offer a range of options and terms of payment. It’s important to find a financing option that works for you with a company you trust. Stability, dependability and experience are essential, as well as a company offering financing options that fit your budget. Companies may require fees or offer “teaser” interest rates that could increase after a short period of time. And because you want to be able to choose the right doctor for you, it helps to work with a company with a large network of providers; helping ensure you can select from many doctors near you.

Other things to consider are whether the offering is a loan for a fixed amount, or a credit card with which you can make additional purchases for follow-up treatments or new procedures.

Using CareCredit Wisely.

Whether you are obtaining credit for something exciting like a new car or flat screen TV, or something you need such as your healthcare, it’s important to understand the terms of your agreement and ensure you can meet the payment requirements.

CareCredit is a credit card and as with most other credit cards, if you do not make your monthly payment on time or miss a payment, you will be charged a late fee. If you take advantage of a No Interest if Paid in Full within 6, 12, 18 or 24 months promotional financing and do not pay your promotional balance in full by the end of the promotional period, you will be charged interest from the purchase date.* If you have not yet applied for the CareCredit credit card, you will see this high interest rate within the application. In order to make CareCredit successful for you and avoid paying a high interest rate, it is essential you make your minimum monthly payment and pay off your balance by the end of the promotional period. Credit can help you pay for the unexpected or simply get what you want sooner. But be sure to understand what you have agreed to and make paying your debt a priority.

Here are a few tips to help you manage your credit card debt.

1. Pay on time. It is important to pay your required minimum monthly payment on time. You might want to consider sending in your payment a week before it’s due, or pay online to make certain your payment arrives before its due date.

2. Never miss a payment. Missing a payment can negatively impact your credit rating and it means you’ll pay a late fee.

3. Pay more than the minimum. If you can’t pay the full balance, pay half. If you can’t pay half, pay something—but always try to pay more than the minimum when you take advantage of No Interest if Paid In Full within Promotional Period (also called “Deferred Interest”) promotional financing options. If you just pay the minimum it may take a long time to pay off your debt, and you’ll pay lots of interest. If you find that you can never pay off what you’ve charged, re-evaluate your budget.

4. Pay off your balance in full every month. If you can afford it, paying your full balance every month (unless you are taking advantage of a promotional financing option). That can help you stay out of long-term debt while getting the convenience of using a credit card.

5. Check your monthly statement. Make sure your statement reflects what you purchased. If something shows up that looks unfamiliar, call your credit card company immediately.

6. Maintain a low “Debt-to-Income Ratio.” Make sure you only take on debt you know you can repay. If your level of debt gets too high, it can affect your credit rating. Lenders often look at the ratio of your overall debt to your income to see if you can pay your bills and still borrow.
